Introduction

In recent years as my ties with the 10th Armored Division Veterans' Association strengthened, it became my desire to create a comprehensive listing of all division members who were killed in the European Theater of Operations (ETO) in 1944/45 due to hostile action.<sup>(1)</sup>

Recognizing that his life is the supreme sacrifice that a soldier can make, this listing was given the name "Honor Roll of Veterans of the 10th Armored Division", or "Honor Roll" for short. It was to serve as a quick reference guide for veterans and their families as well as friends and historians who are searching for information.

From the beginning, it was clear that this undertaking would be difficult because of the passage of time and the limitation of resources. My first break came at the 2004 Reunion of the 10th AD Veterans' Association in Washington, D.C. when Ret. Gen. John Herrling, Secretary of the American Battle Monuments Commission (ABMC), made a presentation on the World War II memorial. Gen. Herrling indicated that his staff would be able to furnish me with a printout of all 10th AD members who were buried at European sites administered by the ABMC. This printout served then as the foundation. Additional help was received from several other organizations and individuals as well.

Much information was researched and collated and, over the course of two years, the present document evolved. It was a tedious process. It is very befitting that this "Honor Roll" was completed in time for distribution at the "Final Salute", i.e. the last reunion of the 10th AD Veterans' Association on September 1-4, 2006, in Louisville, KY.

This effort was carried out by Klaus S. Feindler AM/20th AIB and completed with the help of Maureen Consiglio, secretary in August 2006, Melville, NY.

Discussion

I. Data Sources and Methodology

(1a) American Battle Monuments Commission

The American Battle Monuments Commission (ABMC) was established by Congress in 1923 to commemorate the service, sacrifice and achievements of U.S. Armed Forces. Its commemorative mission is reflected in 24 overseas military cemeteries that serve as resting places for almost 125,000 American war dead.

As such, the ABMC maintains data bases, with burial listings for World War II that are interactive. In order to institute a search, one needs to go by Internet to <http://www.abmc.gov/search/wwii.php>. All that is needed is the last name followed by the first name of the WWII casualty, enter and hit search.

The first search report comes up with Name, Rank, Serial No., Date of Death and Cemetery. Confirming the name then leads to a second report which displays a picture of the appropriate cemetery followed by the following details:

Full Name (including middle initial):
Rank, Branch of Service:
Service Number:
Unit Affiliation:
Entered the Service from:
Date of Death:
Buried at (Plot, Row, Grave):

The original data base sent to us by the ABMC contained 411 10th AD names in alphabetical order and by cemetery. The vast majority of those killed were buried at the Luxembourg American Cemetery (Hamm, Luxembourg) or the Lorraine American Cemetery (St. Avold, France). According to his wishes, Gen. George Patton is buried at the head of the grave field in the Luxembourg Cemetery "to rest with his soldiers".

As an illustrative example, the search report for LTC Jack J. Richardson, Commander of the 20th AIB is included in Attachment A (see page 30). A chart explaining the legend may be found in Attachment B (see page 31).

In order to facilitate expansion of this data base and its integration with other data sources, we converted the original format to a new one based on unit affiliation. However, the method of alphabetical listing was retained within each organic unit. It was believed that this would help surviving veterans to reconnect with their fallen comrades.

The new format was set up as a Microsoft Excel spreadsheet.

(1b) Tiger Tales

Tiger Tales (TT) is the official newsletter of the 10th Armored Division Veterans' Association. In the spring issue 2002, TT printed "An Alphabetical Listing of Battle Deaths of the 10th Armored Division by Organization” (Status June 30, 1947). It is called here the “TT Listing”, which listed 537 fatalities.

According to TT Editor Warren C. Schulze, this same listing had been printed before. By incorporating the TT Listing in our spreadsheet, the newly merged listing increased from 411 to 948 names or entries. However, the TT Listing did not provide the same level of detail as the ABMC listing. Therefore, additional research was required in order to upgrade the TT listing to the same level of detail.

By posting requests for help on the internet Tigerdivision.com Message Board, several individuals responded with additional names for inclusion. After reviewing these names against our criteria specification, 27 more names were added for a combined total of 975. The respondents included Roland Geiger, Howard Liddic and Christian Pettinger. Their help is gratefully acknowledged.

(2) It appears that 10th AD members who were wounded on the battlefield received the customary Purple Heart either from the hospital where they were treated, or by General Orders.

(1c) World War II Registry

On Memorial Day weekend 2004, the National World War II Memorial was dedicated in Washington, D.C. It is located near the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Memorial. Ret. Gen. John P. Herring, Chairman of the American Battle Monument Commission, oversaw its construction.

As part of this undertaking, a data base called “WWII Registry” is maintained which, although not complete yet, ultimately contains about 1.6 million names of Americans who served in the military during WWII. All Americans are invited to register their WWII veteran family member(s). While some entries occurred simply by transfer from other, already existing data bases, such as the ABMC, new entries are still made by the public at large, leaving this data base incomplete. This data base is interactive and can be accessed as follows:

- go to www.wwiimemorial.com
- under World War II Registry, “click here”
- select “Search the Registry”
- enter last name, first name, state/territory (if available); submit
- click on serviceman’s name to view record

Even though the WWII Registry is incomplete as of this writing, it became an invaluable tool in our efforts to upgrade the TT data base. Consequently, we have initiated approximately 600 such searches.

(1d) Index to the General Orders

In 2004, Brandon Wiegand of D-Day Militaria (www.ddaymilitaria.com) published Index to the General Orders of the 10th Armored Division, in World War II. This book is based on General Orders which are maintained by the National Archives in College Park, MD.<sup>(3)</sup> Access is by alphabetical order. Approximately 5,670 names are covered, which accounts only for about 53.1% of the entire division.

This fact raises the point as to what happened to the other 5,000, or so, members of the Division which were not found in the Index? Did any of these receive decorations perhaps outside the procedures of General Orders? One theory has it that hospitals could award Purple Hearts directly and/or independently. With over 3,000 wounded, this may seem to be a plausible explanation.

By superimposing the “Adjutant General’s 1947 Battle Death Report for the 10th Armored Division”, we were able to complete the information which may have been missing in the aforementioned data sources.

Several incomplete listings that had no other information, such as rank, circumstance of death and awards were also found in the Index to the General Orders 10th Armored Division.<sup>(4)</sup> On the other hand, 17 KIA’s which were obtained from the other data sources were missing in the Index completely.

<sup>(3)</sup> Eight General Orders are missing as well as any others which may have been issued between 9-16-45 and 10-13-45. Several others were not legible.

<sup>(4)</sup> “Finding of Death” or FOD (under circumstances of death) refers to a technical legal definition for a man who was presumed dead after one year but there was no evidence or eyewitness to this. It is also referred to as an unresolved “Mission in Action” (MIA) case which was not reclassified as “Killed in Action” (KIA).

III. Statistical Review

A total of 975 10th AD fatalities were accounted for with a certainty of  $\pm 2$  fatalities. Only 46% of this total was buried in ABMC facilities while the majority, i.e. 53%, was buried privately in the U.S., in accordance with the wishes of the next-of-kin.

Table 1 (see page 28) delineates fatalities for each organic unit within the 10th AD, generally at the battalion, or equivalent, level. The 20th AIB stands out with the highest number killed, i.e. 188 followed by the 61st AIB with 175. Among the tank battalions, the 3rd TkbN had the highest number killed with 142. The 21st TkbN had 53 killed.

The Tiger Division website provides a casualty summary which diverges in some respects from our statistical review. In military terminology, a casualty means "a soldier who is killed, wounded, captured, or otherwise lost to his command through combat action". The website breaks down "casualties" as follows:

Killed	710	Wounded	3,400
Missing	586	Captured	1

The website reports a subtotal of 4,697, or 44.0%, for "battle casualties" compared to a subtotal of 3,684, or 34.5%, for "non-battle casualties". The resultant summation comes to 8,381 for "total casualties" which represents a turnover of 78.5% of an operating strength<sup>(5)</sup> of 10,676 men.

We have documented 975 killed which are substantially more than the 710 mentioned above. Unfortunately, the website does not furnish a precise recording date or a data source. Some evidence suggests that "Order of Battle, U.S. Army in World War II – 'Office of the Theater Historian, ETO' in December 1945" may have been the original source. Either way, the year 1945 was probably too early for any final accounting because many of the so-called "missing" were eventually found dead. Still, this discrepancy casts some doubt on the adequacy of website statistics.

Being part of the Armored Infantry was especially hazardous, because 53.3% of all fatalities, or 9.1% of operating strength, were suffered by the three Armored Infantry Battalions. By comparison, the three Tank Battalions suffered 28.1% of the division's battle casualties which suggests that for every tanker lost, 2 infantrymen were lost. One of the reasons was that the basic transportation equipment was the M-3 half-track which was only lightly armored on the sides (1/4" thick steel plate) and totally open on the top. For much of the action, the infantry would dismount and fight without much if any cover. Tanks could protect the infantry against specific and/or fixed targets. However, the reverse was true as the tanks needed close-up protection from the enemy as well. This change in warfare was brought about by the advent of one person operated, highly portable anti-tank weapons, such as bazookas, i.e. the German Panzerfaust, in particular. This meant that infantry on foot was needed to fight enemy infantry which was sometimes dispersed and/or concealed. Furthermore, today's concept of body armor was not available as yet which might have saved the lives of many infantry men. In this connection, it is interesting to note that in the event of a direct hit, a tank could produce up to 5 fatalities as compared to a half-track with 10, or more, fatalities, establishing once again a 1 to 2 ratio. This suggests that relative crew size may have been related to the production of fatalities.

Some military historians questioned if officers were perhaps more sheltered than their men. This kind of thinking may relate to the classical concept of frontlines and command posts often encountered with Infantry Divisions. In contrast, Armored Divisions mostly retained high mobility and frontlines never fully developed save for Bastogne and a few other occasions.

<sup>(5)</sup> In view of the outflow of casualties and the inflow of replacements, the actual operating strength at any given point in time is likely to fluctuate.

Table 2 (see page 29) addresses the totals of officers killed in the 10th Armored Division on a per unit basis. Inspection of this table reveals that the 3rd Tk Bn lost more officers than any other organic unit both in absolute and relative terms. We suspect that much of this may have been caused by their Bastogne assignment. It is significant that each of the three Armored Infantry Battalions lost its Commander. Another stand-out is the 423rd Armd. Fa. Bn. with 29% of its KIAs being officers. More research would be required to find the reason for this observation. Table 2 clearly demonstrated that the Division's officers were in the thick of its fight.

Conclusion

Within the limitations stated, a concerted effort was made to include any and all members of the 10th AD who gave their lives in the gallant pursuit of victory in WWII. Several diverse data bases were scrutinized in order to make all listings in this Honor Roll as complete and comparable as possible.

There are 975 heroes in this Honor Roll who are not forgotten. To their families and friends, this document will provide a ready made point of entry in their quest for information. To future researchers, this document may provide a starting base. This Honor Roll could serve as a base for study at some of the military schools.

In case the U.S. Army can make other resources available, further refinements may become possible, especially with regard to some of the missing. It should be mentioned that still today, volunteers are finding the remains of missing U.S. servicemen in the Ardennes Forest.
